STATE NORMAL SCHOOL JOURNAL

VOLUME VII

CHENEY, WASHINGTON, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1922

NUMBER 11

THIRTY-EIGHT EARN THEIR CERTIFICATES

Fall Graduating Class Has Made Possible Publication of Annual by Getting Subscriptions

Thirty-eight students will take certificates from the Normal school today. One three-year diploma, 27 two-year diplomas and 10 elementary certificates are being issued. Thirteen are being graduated from the intermediate and grammar department, 11 from the primary department, two from the rural department and two from the home economics department.

The fall quarter graduating class has helped to make an important page of Normal history in that it is directly responsible for the publication of the annual in May. The officers and class, through their efforts in collecting information, creating sentiment and finally in securing subscriptions, made the annual a reality.

Ruth Felch Ford, a member of the class, is a daughter of the first principal of the old Benjamin P. Cheney academy, which preceded the present Normal school in Cheney.

Robert D. Baldwin is faculty adviser of the class.

NORTH CENTRAL MAY PRESENT OPERETTA

Negotiations Under Way for Spokane School to Present Musical Production Here Again This Year.

Negotiations for another operetta, to be given by the students of the North Central high school, Spokane, are under way. The chief problem, according to J. E. Buchanan, is that of arranging a satisfactory date. He has suggested December 18 to C. Olin Rice of the music department of North Central.

Last year students of North Central presented "Swords and Scissors," which was well received. It was commended by various members of the faculty, and the Journal, speaking editorially, made the following comment:

"The operetta, 'Swords and Scissors,' which was presented in the Normal auditorium Monday night by the students of the North Central high school, is rightly considered one of the best productions of the year. The presentation was a compliment to the coaching ability of those who directed it. From the standpoint of both institutions the production was well worth while. It afforded a rare musical treat for the Normal students and the people of Cheney and introduced the student body of North Central to one of the best normals in the west. The success of the performance should pave the way for similar productions in Cheney each year."

Dance at Senior Hall

Miss Nettie Goodman was hostess at a dancing party in Senior Hall last Saturday. Her guests were the "stay-at-homes" who remained in Cheney for Thanksgiving.

FAYE WEYMOUTH BREAKS RECORD

She is First Student to Receive Three-Year Diploma at Close of Fall Quarter.

Faye Weymouth, who completes her course today, will receive the first third-year certificate that has ever been granted at the close of a fall quarter, and will be the twenty-sixth person to take a third-year certificate from the Normal.

Since 1918 the number of advanced certificates granted has been steadily increasing. Four were issued in 1918, eleven in 1920 and 13 in 1921-22. At present there are two fourth-year students registered and 11 third-year students.

LET'S ALL TURN OUT

BULLETIN BOARD INTERVIEWS ITSELF SHOWS WIDE RANGE OF KNOWLEDGE

"I'll wager that I'm stuck up worse than anybody else in school," said the bulletin board recently, breaking in upon a serious interview he was having with himself. "But, at that, it is not so bad since this wind shield was put up in front of me. When I stood up in the rotunda on the second floor I was so cluttered up with nondescript memoranda that I was actually ashamed of myself most of the time."

"Since coming to a lower altitude I have been departmentalized. Some of my departments contain serious, dignified and worthwhile information, but I get heartily sick of some of the rot that is posted up. It almost makes me quiver when a thumb tack is pushed into me. I know the personnel of every committee in school and have had several geography club notices pasted over me."

"I have a feeling that I ought to be society editor of the Journal. What I don't know about campus romances—I believe that is what Daisy Talksom calls them—isn't worth mentioning. In front of me come bashful boys to make 'dates' with bashful girls. Believe it or not, I have heard several boys make their first dates with girls who had never been dated up. Laugh? I thought I'd die!"

"Now and again a girl will park herself alongside me with no particular purpose in view and begin reading the notices in a very unconcerned manner. She thinks she is putting something over on me and people who pass along. No doubt she does fool some of the passersby, but I'm too old to be taken in like that. Poor little girl! Half of the time she doesn't realize that she's waiting for a man, but it is perfectly evident to one who can read human nature as easily as I. I wouldn't laugh at her for the world, but sometimes I shake so much that the papers that are not securely fastened on me wobble a bit."

"As the years roll away, and as I witness a never-ending stream of students coming and going—some happy, others disgruntled—I find myself collecting a wonderful store of useful information. I know more about 'pep' than any student or faculty member in school. And talk about traditions! I'm simply full of them. I can remember when some members of the faculty—I don't care to mention names—had more hair than they have now."

"This is rather a dull season for date-making. But I always know weeks ahead of most persons when spring is coming. I don't need to be taken outside the building. All I do is stand still and say nothing. It's strange how much information one can pick up by just keeping his mouth shut. If I just knew how to communicate with the society editor of the Journal—she passes me every day, but doesn't seem to realize that I am just dying to tell her some things. It ought to be as easy to figure me out as to read the story of the rocks that H. G. Wells tells about."

"I wish students and others who use me for disseminating news, instead of going to some legitimate medium like the Journal, would learn to spell and to write legibly. I know that that's asking a great deal, and I have no hope of ever realizing such an ambition. But I believe in having lofty aspirations. If you don't hitch your kiddie car to a star, you'll never get very far in this world."

"Let me see. Today is the end of another quarter. Another class of students is leaving for the field. How time flies away! I'm not as young as I might be, but I am still able to put on a good front. But I must stop. If I keep on talking in this vein, I shall soon have the reputation of being the worst gossip in school."

GRADUATES WILL TEACH

Seven of Fall Quarter Already Have Positions.—Others Recommended by Committee.

Seven fall quarter graduates of the Normal have signed contracts for positions, while a number of others have been recommended.

Ada Martin will teach in Idaho, Alice Smouse has been located in a rural school in Spokane county, and Ruth Johnson will return to her former position at Molson, which has been held open for her return. Althea Johnson will teach in Walla Walla county, Anne Scott in Pierce county, and Idelle Brown in Whitman county. Ruby Woody has obtained a position in Adams county.

MEET TO ARRANGE CONFERENCE GAMES

Coaches of Spokane County Conference Will Meet in Spokane.—Play Idaho and W. S. C.

Miller Will Return

Theo Miller, who played forward on last year's basketball team, is expected to enrol next week. His return will give Coach Eustis three members of last year's squad. Miller also won letters last year in football and in baseball. He was captain of the 1922 basketball squad.

Conference games for the Normal basketball team will be announced following a conference of coaches in Spokane on Saturday, December 16. This meeting has been called by Coach Eustis, president of the association.

Thirty-five men answered the first call for practice, and the coach is confident that the number will soon be increased to 40. Competition for places on the first team will be keen, he says. He is well pleased with the showing that several of the new men are making.

Four games have already been definitely scheduled for the second team. One game will be played at Spangle on December 8, another at St. Maries, Ida., on February 2 and a third at Ritzville on February 16. The second team will go to Vera on December 22. Games will also be played with the Endicott high school and with the Mullan, Ida., high school. All second-team games will be played away from Cheney.

Two games have been scheduled for the first team with the varsity team of the State College of Washington, and negotiations were completed this week for games with the varsity team of the University of Idaho. Idaho will play in Cheney December 22, and the Normal team will play in Moscow on January 12. Last year the Idaho team won the championship of the Pacific coast.

The Normal team will play the State Normal School at Lewiston, Ida., on January 13.

For the last two years the Normal basketball team has won the championship of the Spokane county conference. Last year the team won 16 straight games. During the week's trip through western Washington four out of five games played were won.

Ten Get Elementaries

One-year elementary certificates are being granted to 10 persons today. They are: Estelle Blanchett, Lodema M. Cole, Viola Curtis, Helen Honefinger, Emilie Irwin, Merna Jessup, Violet Paulson, Mrs. Eunice Polard, Blanche Rutter and Emily Smith.

Entertain Senior A's

Monday evening the Senior A class was entertained by the Senior B class in the Y. W. C. A. room. R. D. Baldwin and A. A. Eustis sang several selections and games were played by the students.

ORGAN PLEDGES ARE NOW PAST DUE

Pledges to the pipe organ fund, which were made last spring or summer, are now past due. It is hoped that all of them can be paid prior to the Christmas vacation. President Showalter is anxious to have a report on the fund January 1, and the committee is anxious to show in the report that the required quota—$5,000—has been raised. It will help a great deal if you will mail your check at once. Make check payable to Pipe Organ Committee and mail it to J. Orin Oliphant, State Normal School, Cheney, Wash.

'Tis Distance

Literature, deemed by many to be the greatest of the arts, contains numerous statements expressing, in a few words, a beautiful, universal thought. One of these is, "Distance lends enchantment to the view." The truth of this statement is well illustrated.

In the fall of the year, with all the enthusiasm and spirit of youth, the student counts the days until he may go to the institution of his choice. He may never have seen it, but no doubt it is wonderful; it is so far away. If asked why he chooses to go to another state or across his own state to go to school, he will glibly tell you of the superior excellence of the school of his choice. He has not read the circulars and college catalogues all summer without finding that out. Little does he realize that the mystic charm is distance. One of the contentions is that he must get away from home; he can't stay there all ways. But when the routine of college life becomes usual, home is dearer than ever before. And it is then so far away!

The student is not the only one who feels the effect of distance. A large number of tourists go abroad each year to see the wonders of Europe; the Alps, old castles, architecture and famous places. Why do they not notice the wonders of America, its giant canyons, deserts, forests, rivers, falls and mountains? Why not "See America First?" The answer is simple: Europe is clothed in the mystic veil of distance, and many who go each year to lift the veil find, when distance is annihilated, that charm is lessened. The English child is thrilled with accounts of the beauties of the Canadian Rockies, while the Canadian child wonders about the highlands of Scotland. People in Washington dream of Lake Lucerne and the Alps when Lake Chelan and the Rocky mountains are so near. Why? The person who goes to see Lake Lucerne has gone abroad, the one who sees Lake Chelan has "been up here in the hills."

It is not only the beauty of a place that attracts tourists to it. Mother Nature has a helper and knows that "distance lends enchantment to the view."

Cheer Up

School life has its difficulties as much as do other lines of endeavor. They are not confined to any special branch or to a certain class of students.

There are periods when troubles harass you to such an extent that you are almost ready to give up. For the time school life loses its many attractions and you see nothing but flunking grades before you.

It is at times like these that you have an opportunity to show what you are made of. Let these temporary obstacles serve only to arouse your fighting spirit. Through thoughtful preparation no difficulty is insurmountable. You may be flunking in one of your classes, but don't give up.

Real character is built by overcoming obstacles. Perseverance is necessary to attain this end, because it arouses power and ability. Don't get the false idea that you are an exception. You are but one of many who are confronted with perplexing problems.

To which class of students do you belong? To the ones who overcome difficulties or to those who let difficulties overcome them?

SALVAGE DEPARTMENT

Edited by
O. G. WHIZZ

Confined to the beaten paths of tradition, the ordinary journalist overlooks or discards much that is of vital interest to humanity. It is the purpose of the editor of this department to gather up the broken bits of news, weld them together and make them serve useful purposes. Motto: "What others discard we pick up."

Editorial

We have just finished examining the Enfant Terrible edition of the Journal, published under the supervision of our learned contemporary, Miss Agnes Schelling. We assume that the purpose of that edition was to be funny, and perhaps there are some who really laughed at it. It is our opinion, however, without casting any slighting remarks, that the dignity of the press was lowered considerably by such an edition. There were some things in there that we don't believe, speaking frankly. For instance, the dinner at Monroe Hall was later reported to be considerably better than it was advertised to be. Then, again, Mr. Kingston asserts that he did not write about the "Repeal of the Law of Supply and Demand," but that, on the contrary, he is compiling a "History of the State of Equilibrium," to be published in two volumes with an appendix. Mr. Neldert asserts, too, that the society reporter "got him wrong." He isn't planning to make any announcement in the manner set forth, he declares. All in all, the edition was full of errors and lacking in the breadth of vision which should belong to the agency that helps more than anything else to shape public opinion in a democracy. The front page suggested the Hearst type of sensationalism.—Editor.

'Tis Distance

In another column of the Journal a dignified editorial writer discourses learnedly on the fact that "distance lends enchantment to the view." We do not dispute the statement, but it had never occurred to us before why we are liked so much better by the girls back home while we are away at school.

Contributed Comments

One of our well-wishers has "handed" us the following comments on "things as they are," which we pass along:

Reference Humor

If you feel funny, go down and try to tease Sacajawea. She will promptly show you the door.

The Martyrs

The children of the Training school sometimes find their task of training teachers a difficult one.

A New Song

An appropriate song for Monday morning assembly: "My Washing's Done, My Washing's Done."

Avoid Mental Wandering

To students in the library: Remember, you are not in an ice cream parlor, even though your chair is exquisitely uncomfortable and has twisted wire legs.

The Lowly Comma

A weekly newspaper in a neighboring county tells of a new town on the Columbia river named George. The appointment committee should soon post on its bulletin board a notice reading: "Wanted: Teacher for George, Washington."

You Name It, Bill

W. E. Haeseler's name appeared first on the "honorable mention" list in a recent "title contest" conducted by a nearby metropolitan newspaper. It might be well to appoint Mr. Haeseler faculty adviser for the naming of the annual.

Name for Annual

In order to stimulate interest in the naming of the annual, we herewith suggest a name, which we consider unusually "peppy," as follows: "Sacajawea's Moccasin." If you don't like that name, name it yourself.

Nothing New

It is reported that the Campfire association has conferred the rank of woodgatherer upon Miss Antoinette Dustin. Mother conferred that honor upon us when we were five years old.

Doesn't Talk Right Way

Dear Miss Talksom:

For the last several weeks one of the boys of the Normal school, who is quite prominent in many respects, has been keeping company with me constantly. He calls to take me somewhere every evening that we can get away from study. Naturally, I have come to think that he really cares a lot for me. But what puzzles me is the way he talks and talks. He tells me about hunting and fishing and turning out for basketball and asks me if I read about the football scores and things of that sort until he almost tires me to death. I know that he likes me a great deal, but why doesn't he say so instead of going on the way he does? Should I refuse to go out with him and trust that he will get over this tiresome habit? I never have been in such a quandary.

Anxiously yours,
Maryanna

Men Never Do That

My Dear Maryanna:

The experience you have related in your recent communication to me is not peculiar at all. It is the experience that all girls have with all men. Men as a class are excessively stupid. They delight in talking about feminine weaknesses and, at the same time, show their vanity in so many petty little ways that it is almost disgusting to watch them. It probably wouldn't do any good for you to refuse to go out with this prominent young man you mention, for he would undoubtedly take advantage of the large number of girls at the Normal by going with another one. I would be surprised if there were not several girls waiting to pick him up the moment you make up your mind to drop him. If you really care anything about him, you would better put up with him and let him go on talking. Some moment when he isn't thinking he'll surprise you and himself by proposing to you. The best way to handle a man is to let him think that he is dominating you completely while, as a matter of fact, you are on the alert to outwit him. Don't be discouraged.

Very truly yours,
Daisy Talksom

CLEO'S DIARY

Dec. 4.—Dear me, this is the last week of the quarter and I just know I'll flunk in something. There's that old English of Tieje's. My, how I hate all that stuff and that rot that's called upper grade methods. I'd like to see the color of the eyes of anybody who would teach that stuff when he got into a real school. Wish I knew if I'd get through in everything.

Dec. 5.—Well, I simply can't study after the good time I had over the Thanksgiving vacation. I was out with a different man every night, and I was awful popular because I had been away to school. They don't know what a normal school is, and I didn't tell them, you bet. I guess they thought I was rushed a whole lot here.

Dec. 7.—These long skirts worry me a whole lot more than flunking. If I ever learn to walk again it will be a wonder. I look to see myself fall all over some boy at the next formal—that is, if any of them has the nerve to ask me to go with him. As for being an athlete, I might as well give up and settle down to be an old maid. I was 18 my last birthday and I'm no nearer being married than when I was 13.

Japanese Art is On Display Here

By Mademoiselle Faux Pas

Gay-colored Japanese prints from the land of cherry blossoms, old temples, and jade-tinted lakes filled the art room on the third floor all this week and gave it an atmosphere as delightful as a quaint fairy tale—or a poem—till one could almost catch the scent "of purple plum blossoms" or hear the tinkle of tiny glass bells across the miniature temple courts that the Japanese artist so delicately prints. One stepped out of the world of reality by simply (in imagination) supplying the spectators with Mandarin coats. Mark Sugimoto, a former employe of the Normal, owns the prints which were exhibited, and his appreciative explanations added a certain native charm to the exhibit.

Japanese printing dates its origin to the sixteenth century in the school of Hishikawa. In the eighteenth century it had become universal; color printing was invented; the prints required as many wooden blocks as there were colors in the print; on each block the design was carved by hand and afterwards printed by hand; although this was a laborious process, an ordinary print sold at only six or seven cents at that period. The paints were water colors made from fruits or vegetables and did not fade.

About 400 pieces were on exhibition, among which were some valuable Toyokunis, a few Hiroshiges, and several Shunzans.

Start Debating Next Week

Debate try-outs will be held some day next week, according to the plans made at a meeting of the debate supervisors last Wednesday. Work will begin as soon as the debaters have been chosen.

Pay Organ Pledges

Pledges have been paid to the pipe organ fund recently by the following persons:

Mildred Wilt, Raymond Snyder, Clair Crisp, Gazelle Walston, Lela Walston, Vesta Overby, Ardis Woodward, Lillian Danaher, Myrtle Bailey, Lillie Praetorius, Thena Finchum, Mrs. L. W. Sanderlin, Esther Ragan, Catherine Narup, Emma Hollingshead, Mrs. A. T. Park, Elizabeth Wilson, Dorothy Briggs, Clara Bailey, Glenn Macomber, Ethel Crump, Florence G. Spencer, Mildred O'Dell, Lucy A. Campbell, Nova Terril, Hazel K. Smith, Annabelle Howard, and A. H. Reichard.

One-fourth of the receipts from the Dramatic club, amounting to $44, were turned over to the organ fund.

TO PRACTICE TEACHING

One Hundred and Forty Signed Up for Winter Quarter.—Seventy-Three Are Juniors.

One hundred and forty students have made application for practice teaching in the Training school during the winter quarter. Of this number 73 are juniors and 67 are seniors.

It was expected that there would be nearly 200 practice teachers in the Training school this coming quarter, but results of the "signing-up" process leave the record for the greatest number of practice teachers at 187, which was in the spring quarter of last year. During the winter quarter of last year there were 142 practice teachers.

APACHE CLUB

"Doc" Davis was the only man who let the Thanksgiving turkey get the best of him. He was unable to get back to school on time.

When "Red" Henderson gets his football sweater and thinks of home and mother, he will be very patriotic—red, white and blue.

It is rumored that there will be many changes in the Apache club personnel with the new quarter. Some think of leaving because it is too quiet, some want to go to a quieter place, and some want to come in because they don't know what they are moving into.

Lyndle Cooper says he would like to have one of those "date books," for he has a hard time remembering which woman he is to take to church, which one to play hour and which one to glee club practice.

Henderson has received several replies to his ad in last week's Journal, and has some very nice photos. Eddie says the worst part now is to decide which one he wants.

STUDENTS GIVE RECITAL

"Barbara Frietchie," Patriotic Ballad, Presented in Normal Auditorium—Solo by Miss Bell.

Last night the students of the music department gave a recital in the Normal school auditorium. "Barbara Frietchie," a patriotic ballad, was presented by the glee clubs, and the orchestra played as part of the program.

Miss Ada Louise Bell sang the solo part of "Barbara Frietchie."

Mrs. Grace Hulscher, Miss Margaret Paige, Miss Marian Lawton and Miss Ada Louise Bell were in charge of the program.

Movies at the Normal School this evening.

HONOR MISS DUSTIN AT CAMPFIRE'S MEET

Campfire Girls Will Conduct Sale of Christmas Seals in Competition With Other Schools.

Miss Antoinette Dustin, guardian of the Sacajawea Campfire girls, received the rank of Woodgatherer at the grand council fire held in the armory in Spokane last Saturday. All the members of the Sacajawea group attended the meeting.

Committee chairmen for the month of December have been appointed as follows: Kathleen Riley, work, meetings; Rosamond Matteson, social; Vivian Marberg, hikes.

The sale of Red Cross Christmas seals is in charge of the Campfire girls this week. A silver cup, now in the possession of Whitworth college, will be awarded to the school making the largest sale of seals. A school must win the cup three years in order to retain it permanently.

Spokane college, Spokane university, Whitworth college, Holy Names academy and Cheney normal school are the schools competing in the contest.

EIGHTEEN GIRLS TRY OUT FOR TEAM

Selected by Miss Antoinette Dustin Because of Ability Shown in Recent Series of Games.

Eighteen girls have been chosen to try out for the school basketball team by Miss Antoinette Dustin, director of girls' athletics at the Normal school. They are:

Luella Faulkner, Erma Menath, Josephine Bresnahan, Hilda Woodburn, June McChesney, Catherine Bentley, Rowena Nance, Goldie Walker, Genevieve Gubser, Hazel Campbell, Lola Claypool, Elizabeth Babcock, Arta Verity, Keitha Robertson, Hazel Rayburn, Myrtle Spinning, Amy Coleman, and Martha Weigelt.

These girls were selected by Miss Dustin because of ability displayed by their playing in the recent tournament games.

COMMUNICATIONS

Contributions dealing with topics of general interest to the student body will be published in this column. A communication should be brief and pointed. Each manuscript must be signed. If the writer prefers to have his name withheld from publication, that courtesy will be accorded. But no cognizance can be taken of anonymous communications.

A Girl For President

Girls! Why don't you elect a girl for president of the student body?

There are nearly five times as many girls as boys in school. As a rule there is more talent in a large group than in a small group. Are you going to let the girls in the Normal at Cheney prove an exception?

The activities of the school are dependent upon the student body for financial support and for patronage. Why not have some one who represents the student body best at the head of these activities? Some one who knows the students best and knows who would help best?

Girls! Put aside your personal feeling toward some girls and stick together in choosing your president. Then there will be no chance to say "The Normal is partial to the boys." "To those who have shall be given."

—Student.

Avon Club Organized

The Avon club, a newly organized social service group of Catholic girls attending Normal, met recently and elected officers. They are: President, Gertrude Fehmer; vice president, Vivian Bertrand; secretary-treasurer, Mary Lux. The next meeting will be held at Mrs. Inez Reeder's at Fifth and H streets, December 14, from 6:30 to 7:45.

"My Old Kentucky Home-Tonight"

PROGRAM IN 3 GROUPS

Gymnasium Exhibition Last Tuesday Was Judged by C. A. Brocar, Miss Riley and Dr. Merriman.

Classes participating in the gymnasium exhibition, held last week in the Normal school gymnasium under the direction of Miss Antoinette Dustin, were divided into three groups—the first four grades of the Training school, the four upper grades of the Training school, and the Normal school classes.

In the first division the first and second grades won first place, and the fourth grade won second place.

First place was awarded the fifth, sixth and seventh grade boys, and second place went to the seventh and eighth grade girls in the second division.

Honors were won by the second-period junior class, which got first place, and the senior girls, who were awarded second place in the third division.

C. A. Brocar, supervisor of physical training in the Spokane schools, Miss Gladys Riley of the Cheney high school, and Dr. Curt's Merriman of the Normal school judged the exhibition.

Geography Club Meets

Next Thursday evening, December 14, the Geography club will hold its first meeting of the winter quarter. The club did not have its regular meeting this week, but an extra meeting will be held sometime during the winter quarter. The Geography club now has a membership of 140 persons.

Start Annual Work

Ten students, in response to the announcement made asking all students who had had experience working on high school papers and annuals, met Tuesday with Dr. Ralph E. Tieje and J. Orin Oliphant, who are in charge of the Normal school annual. Within the next few weeks it is hoped that a complete staff can be appointed.

Those students who met were: Gladys Crites, Luella McFaddin, Frances McFaddin, Derce Dearborn, Josephine Bresnahan, Aleua Lanham, Florence Wendler, Ferdinand Ottomeler, Clarence Snodgrass and Clarence Jayne.

Play Semi-Finals

Semi-final games in the girls' basketball tournament that were played last week were won by the C. N.'s from the Do Win team by a score of 16 to 4, and by the Red Peppers from the O. K.'s by a score of 14 to 10.

Normal Students Take Notice

If You Believe It--It's So That's the title of the Thomas Meighan Paramount Special at the

Liberty Theatre, Cheney this Friday and Saturday
December 8th and 9th

Famous as the "good luck" star, Thomas Meighan has a great army of admirers. His recent successes, "Our Leading Citizen" and "The Bachelor Daddy" have done more to popularize him with all classes of picture fans than many of his previous vehicles, but it is confidently expected that his latest starring vehicle, "If You Believe It, It's So," in which he has a character resembling that he portrayed with brilliant results in "The Miracle Man," will be hailed as one of the most artistic in which he has been seen in recent years. Also two-reel comedy entitled, "Scrappily Married."

Admission 15c and 35c.

First show starts at 7:00 p. m. sharp
